Construction Update
Middlebury Bridge & Rail Project

DATE: April 9, 2021

TRAFFIC IMPACT: There are no anticipated traffic impacts next week, but be mindful of construction vehicles entering and leaving Triangle Park and Printer's Alley via Merchants Row, Main Street and the Marble Works.

CONSTRUCTION ACTIVITIES: We are excited to kick off the final season of construction in downtown Middlebury, and bet you are too!

Crews have been forming and pouring sidewalks in Triangle Park, resuming where they left off last fall. A priority is to form and pour the second sidewalk that traverses the park from Merchants Row to Main Street, and that forms the boundary between the hardscape and open space. The contractor expects to finish pouring concrete in Triangle Park by the end of next week.

In Printer's Alley, the crew replaced the walkway connecting Main Street and Marble Works with temporary gravel as they prepare for the construction of curbs, sidewalk and roadway. Also, crews began laying granite curb along the access road from Main Street to Marble Works. That roadway will reopen this summer.

Kubricky will excavate for the retaining wall to prepare the paver labyrinth. Expect Lazarus Park and new Printer's Alley to transform rapidly this season!

By mid-week, you may notice crews constructing the concrete surfaces on the top of the U-walls north of Main Street.

Contractor Waters Excavation pours sidewalk panels in Triangle Park.
They will finish pouring concrete as early as next week.
